

Tony started playing drums at the age of nine watching his uncle's band play through the basement window. With over 50 years of playing with various bands, he is a hard hitting precise powerful drummer who is not afraid to bring the drums out front while at the same time providing an excellent groove and pocket to drive the music forward. He was influenced by some of the greatest drummers of all time including: Neil Peart, Steve Gadd, Stewart Copeland, and many other great creative drum masters. He has played with some of the finest Long Island musicians and is always learning and trying to do it better all the time. Tony is currently thrilled with his current band "RetroVerse" and "The Decades Experience" and doing shows around Long Island.
